USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

About the Resilience Evaluation, Analysis and Learning (REAL) Associate Award:

REAL is a consortium-led effort funded by the USAID Center for Resilience. It was established to respond to growing demand among USAID Missions, host governments, implementing organizations, and other key stakeholders for rigorous, yet practical, monitoring, evaluation, strategic analysis, and capacity building support. Led by Save the Children, REAL draws on the expertise of its partners: Food for the Hungry, Mercy Corps, and TANGO International.

NOTE: This community resilience questionnaire was developed as part of the resilience instrument (which involves a household and community questionnaire) to be used with the Food for Peace (FFP) core household questionnaire. Other USAID offices (e.g., BFS) may need to adjust references of specific FFP modules/questions to match their own core questionnaire. The community questionnaire is designed to be implemented with a small group (e.g., 3-4) of community key informants, such as elders, religious leaders, community government representatives, etc.¹

INTRODUCTION AND PURPOSE OF THE INTERVIEW:

- Greetings! My name is _____ and I am currently working for/with [name] on the Baseline Survey of [Project name].
- We have selected your village by chance (randomly) for the interview. The purpose of this interview is to learn about livelihoods, food security, responses to shocks, access to services and well-being of this village.
- The survey is voluntary and confidential. We will not disclose your village information to any other entity not directly related to this research project. Any information that is obtained in connection with this study that can be identified with you/your village will remain confidential and will only be shared with USAID and the research company, [name]. We will be recording the location of your village so we may interview you again if your village is randomly selected for subsequent survey rounds. This information will be password protected and accessible only to the principal investigator and their research team.
- We cannot and do not guarantee or promise that your village will receive any benefits from this study. No compensation, monetary or otherwise, can be offered for your participation as this may be seen as coercing your participation.
- Participation in this study is voluntary. If you decide not to participate in this study, your decision will not affect your future relations with the research institutions or its personnel. If you decide to participate, you are free to withdraw your consent and to discontinue participation at any time without penalty.
- These questions in total will take approximately 30 minutes to complete and your participation is voluntary. Could you please spare some time for the interview?

Do you have any questions about the survey? Answer any questions they may have.

About the USAID Resilience and Resilience Capacities Measurement Options

Given the range of USAID programs trying to capture changes in resilience promoted through their investments, there is a need for measurement options that better reflect the goals and available resources of these different programs.

This guidance presents Light, Intermediate, and Full approaches for analyzing resilience, each of which reflects a different level of effort—and budget—in terms of the survey instrument and analysis used.

This document is one of five resources intended to be used together for measuring and analyzing resilience in relevant USAID-funded activities:

- Resilience and Resilience Capacities Measurement Options
- Household Questionnaire
- Community Questionnaire
- Enumerator Guidance (this document) (for both questionnaires)
- Methodological Guide
